Sturgeon Municipal Council

Council members were photographed in their Chamber in the attractive modern Municipal County Building at the south end of Morinville, a fitting edifice for this community which was a pioneer settlement at the turn of the century.

The present Sturgeon Municipal District has a varied history beginning in 1955 when the Districts of Sturgeon #548 and Morinville #549 were amalgamated. The County of Sturgeon was formed on January 1st, 1961 to include the M. D. of Sturgeon #90 and Sturgeon School Division #24 and operating for the next 4 and 1/2 years.

In July of 1965 it was decided to revert to the former system and the Municipal District of Sturgeon #90 and Sturgeon School Division #24 were established.

Mr. Stanley Walker was first elected to Council in 1949, becoming Reeve in 1958 and continuing still to serve in that capacity. Mr. Nobert was elected Councillor in 1956, serving till February, 1962. He was appointed Secretary-Treasurer in March of that year and continues in that office. Mr. Rye served as Reeve from 1955-56 and has been Deputy Reeve since 1957.

Mr. Bevington was elected to Council in 1960, and both Mr. Flynn and Mr. Van de Walle in 1961. Mr. Kluthe and Mr. Wilson have served as Councillors since 1965.

Building inspector appointment

Mr. Wheating advised that he had received the resignation of Mr. J. D. Roberts, Building Inspector, effective at the end of this month. Advertisements had been placed to fill the vacancy. However, subsequently Mr. Wheating had discussed the matter with other members of the staff and the appointment of Fireman Paul Poulin to this position had been recommended. It was considered that Mr. Poulin would be capable of fulfilling the duties satisfactorily and that inter-office promotions should be encouraged if possible. The Committee suggested that the appointment should be made on a six-months trial basis. The question of whether the ads. should be withdrawn was discussed and it was generally agreed that these should be left in the papers and that Mr. Poulin could make application for the position as advertized. Applications received could then be screened and a recommendation to Council made at the next regular meeting on Monday night.

Mayor Fowler and Councillor Wheatley now left the meeting.

TAX RECOVERY FEES:

Mr. Billings advised that the Town presently charges $3.00 when Notification is placed and $3.00 when it is discharged.

While at the meeting in Leduc he had discussed the matter with other Sec.-Treasurers and had found that we are undercharging on these fees. Other municipalities were making a charge of $10.00 when Notification is placed only. Mr. Billings recommended that the Town charge an amount of $10.00 rather than $6.00 as at present.

It was moved that the Committee accepts the recommendation of the staff and that the fees for Tax Recovery action be set at $10.00.

ST. ALBERT CRAFTS GUILD – ACCOMMODATION:

Mr. Wheating advised that Mr. Gate would have a report on this matter for the next meeting. Arrangements could be made for the Youville Home to provide adequate accommodation, providing that the Guild would give instruction to the residents of the Home. The Public School also would be willing to make similar arrangements and accommodation by the Community League is still available.

U. A. M. RESOLUTION – TAXES PENALTY CHARGES:

Councillor de Bruijn advised the Committee that there was the possibility that the Town could borrow from the Bank and be paying an interest rate of 7% and only be charging 6% penalty on unpaid taxes as is presently permitted under the Act. It was suggested that efforts be made to change the Legislation to allow the penalty charge to fluctuate in the event that the bank rates also fluctuate. Mr. Billings presented a Resolution which had been prepared for the U. A. M. Convention.

It was agreed that this Resolution be forwarded to the Union of Alberta Municipalities.

ASSESSMENT – 23, SABLE CRESCENT:

Mr. Wheating advised that the above property had been taxed on an incomplete assessment for the years 1964, 1965 and 1966, in error.

The Committee recommended to Council that a Ministerial Order be requested for the updating of the assessment on No. 23, Sable Crescent.

Councillor de Bruijn moved that the meeting be adjourned at 9:10 p.m.

Carried.

NEW LIGHTING GOING IN

Men and equipment are pictured at work on the installation of Highway Lighting within the Town of St. Albert. Town Engineer J. Maandag reported to the Oct. 31 meeting of Council that the matter of easements had been resolved by Calgary Power and with the arrival of wooden posts from B.C. and light fixtures from the East work was started this week. It is expected the installation will be completed by mid November.

Finance Committee Considers:

$18,136.00 UNPAID TAXES AND PUBLIC WORKS BUILDING

Chairman Parkes, Councillors Wheatley & de Bruijn and Mayor Fowler, Mr. Loyd Wheating Secretary-Treasurer and Mr. S. L. Billings, Assistant Secretary-Treasurer, were present for the October 20th meeting of the Finance Committee of Council.

RENT OF PREMISES PAYABLE ON TAXES:

Mr. Wheating asked the Committee to consider whether the Town should proceed under Section 387 of the Act to collect unpaid taxes and to review one particular complaint received from a ratepayer where this method is being used. He also listed a number of cases where collection had been made by this provision, and those which have recently been undertaken. Mr. Wheating further advised that the total amount of taxes involved is $18,136.00, uncollected at the present time. Mr. Wheating explained that this is the only method of collection to which the Town can resort prior to Tax Recovery action.

The case of the apartments was discussed at some length that if Section 387 was applied in this particular case it would cause extreme hardship and possibly result in bankruptcy. The question of whether or not the outstanding utility account could also be collected in this manner was also considered. Mr. Wheating advised that he had discussed the whole matter with the Department and was to meet with the principal of the firm next week to see if some arrangement can be made for the satisfactory settlement of these accounts. There was also the matter of improvements which had been prepaid by Windsor Holdings but had not yet been installed by the Town. It was suggested that the amount of the prepayment could be credited to the Company and applied against the outstanding taxes. Payment for the improvements could then be made when installation takes place.

It was suggested that this matter be tabled to the next Finance Committee meeting to see what results from the discussions between the owners and Mr. Wheating.

TAXES OWING – BUSINESS CONCERNS:

Mr. Billings advised the Committee that there are a number of businesses in Town which have outstanding property and business taxes and to which the Town is making payments for services or goods purchased. He wondered if it would be possible to contra the payables amount and apply the same against the taxes. The Committee agreed that these concerns could be contacted to see if they will agree to contra payment.

BUILDINGS FOR PUBLIC WORKS AND RECREATION:

The possibility of purchasing buildings from Crown Assets Disposal was now considered. Mr. Wheating advised that he had made enquiries as to the cost and he felt it would be possible to obtain an "H" shaped building which would be adequate for a Public Works Building for approx $7,000.00. Smaller buildings for recreation were also discussed.

It was decided that the metal building be recommended to the Public Works Committee for consideration as a Public Works building and the wooden one for recreation.

Local Youth Passes

News of the sudden and untimely death of Anthony Van der Gaag in Fort St. John, B. C. on Saturday, November 5th, came as a great shock and has saddened the entire community. Tony is the son of Mrs. S. Van der Gaag in St. Albert.

He was overcome by sour (or poisened) gas from the oil well where he was at work on the Battery in the production department of Union Oil Company of Canada. First aid was given and he was rushed to hospital in Fort St. John, but attempts to revive him were unsuccessful.

The accident occurred about one o'clock and his brother Harry was notified. Harry is owner-operator of the Won-O-Won Oil Contracting Co. Ltd, just out of Fort St. John at Mile 101. He came home to St. Albert as quickly as possible, as did the other brother, Fred of Calgary and the only sister, Mary (Mrs. E. Mecir) of Edmonton.

Funeral services will be held on Thursday, November 10th, from the Howard & McBride Funeral Chapel at 1:30 p.m. Interment will be in Holy Cross Cemetary.

Tony, who was 20 years old on the second of August, left St. Albert at the end of June to start work for Union Oil, and was home during the interval to attend the graduation exercises at St. Albert High on Oct. 21st.

Shown below is a part of the large mobile unit of Marine Pipeline and Dredging Ltd., temporarily located on St. Anne Street. The firm is at work on pipe line construction in the area East of Legal on part of the line from the Rainbow Lake area to Edmonton refineries. They will be here about another month, and are the same firm who located in St. Albert last year for a short time.

TO STUDY SCHOOL SITES

Mr. Harvey reported on a study session arranged for Nov., for the Joint Use Committee to review school and recreational sites planning. He distributed copies of the Urban Renewal Report and requested the Trustees to study the material. The Board agreed that a Special Meeting would be held on Monday, Nov. 28th to review the District's needs for school and recreational sites.

Secretary reported that Mr. B. Pratt had not signed the termination agreement he had verbally accepted at the last Board Meeting, but had raised a new objection and was now asking that the Board include a clause in the termination agreement which would restrict the Board's choice of appointment of another architect on the Leo Nickerson Elementary School addition. The Board was advised that the advertisements of tenders for the additions to Sir Alexander McKenzie and Sir George Simpson Junior High Schools were to appear in the Edmonton Journal on October 28, and 29, 1966, in accordance with Board instructions to Aberdeen, Groves and Hodgson, Architects.

Mr. Schroder requested that the Superintendent prepare a report on his projection of classrooms required for the Fall term 1967. This report is in progress and will be available to the Board at an early date.

Those who can't remember

A large segment of our populations, and one whose importance to our nation cannot be overestimated, cannot remember the tremendous upheaval caused in two world wars. Remembrance Day for them brings back no memories of suffering, losses, fears, excitement, victories or the enormous changes made in everyday life by war. They can't remember because they were not yet born.

When we take our young boys and girls to the special services on November 11th do we take the time and patience to find out just what their reactions are to the ceremonies and worship services planned by older generations and, reasonably, largely for older people?

For older people, many of whom have experienced two world wars, it is impossible to separate the traditional November 11th services from a host of vivid memories. Take away the memories and try to see the day as a young person in his teens sees it.

When we observe the attitudes of young students in groups protesting their leaders policies in the Vietnam war, loudly demanding free tuition for University, smoking privileges in high schools, defending their so-called right to pursue pre-marital sexual experience without interference, then we wonder if the older generation is truly living up to its responsibility.

The last world war was fought by people who desperately wanted to live in peace - it came so soon after the first world war. So much did they want peace that they came near to letting maniacal tyrant and his gigantic military machine take away their freedom. It took long years for the Western peoples to realize that their freedom was worth even more than peace. From the long and horror-filled struggle that followed there are many lessons for our young people to learn.

It is the business of parents, educators and civic leaders to make certain our young people know precisely what being free means. By every graphic means at our disposal we should show this generation what happened to freedom in Europe under Hitler. They should see films of what happened in the Concentration Camps to the Jewish people and other SO CALLED "inferior People" - of how the littler youth were taken from their home environment and trained for a dictator's purpose - or what happened to adults who dared to protest, the so-called "political prisoners".

They should also know what position was taken by the leading men in their own country when Canada joined the struggle. They should see too what life on limited food, gasoline, heat and electricity rations was like for everyday people involved in the struggle. We must make certain that they will never take freedom for granted, or they will surely lose it.

It is good that young people make protests - that they are crusaders for many social causes - so they should. But young people are emotional - a wrong idea, sentimentally put, can lead them off on wrong tangents. The older folk who struggled and suffered through two world wars should be able to guide them away from false sentiment toward a realistic appraisal of what values are important and worthy of their energetic protest or action.

While we pause to remember this week, let us also reflect on the attitudes of our boys and girls not old enough to remember.

Human Relations

Good human relations is people getting along well together.

Behind the facade of every workman is a person. Become aware of that person and show sincere interest in him. Be generous and encouraging. Give him a sense of belonging on your team.

For your own good, as well as that of the plant, don't live in a private world where subordinates fear to tread. Don't turn your foreman's chair into a throne. Come out from behind your paper work every once in a while and meet your staff on the floor.

For reasons which we are far from fully understanding, when a collection of people becomes a team, their capacity for production is astonishingly increased, and this is true even though each is performing an individual task.

This state is reachable only by foremen who obtain the collaboration of people in their work groups through loyalty and liking and co-operation.

As a foreman, you have not hired a hand but a whole person. You can buy a man's time, you can even buy a measured number of skilled muscular actions per hour, but you cannot buy enthusiasm, initiative, loyalty. You have to earn these things.

The spirit of team-work may be kept in being if you give every man enough responsibility to make him feel his own importance. The ability to delegate work so as to get the job done in the most efficient way and at the same time to enhance the worker's ego: this is an ability to be developed by every ambitious foreman.

WINNING SUPPORT:

However tall a man may stand in the hierarchy of management he is not a successful executive unless he understands the points of view and the problems of the rank and file of his workers. The foreman, close to the workers, must know these things intimately. Like the skip of a curling rink or the cox of a rowing crew, he must know the strong and weak points of his people, what incentive brings forth their best effort, and the boundary beyond which he must not try to push them.

How are you to win your workers to give you the support you desire? It comes naturally to the man of sensibility: base your thoughts and acts upon the knowledge that every one of your workers is striving to carve out a place for himself in a chaotic and confused world: that he is searching for a good life for himself and his family; that he is hunry for human understanding.

Every man on the team has a practical stake of the most concrete kind in the leadership you give, and he is entitled to the most competent leadership of which you are capable. Your workers have put their working days into your hands. They have the right to expect that you will study your profession and keep up to date in it.

DISCIPLINE:

No group of people can live together, much less work most effectively together, without organized control. Society itself would revert to the jungle if we had not rules to live by.

During his own apprenticeship the foreman has learned the first lesson of management: to obey. But discipline is more than blind obedience. The word itself comes from the same root as the word "disciple," and a disciple is one who follows the teachings and the example of a respected leader.

The foreman who is a leader is a better man than that. His patient precept, his inspiration and his example turn the trick. There will be times when even this foreman must decree emphatically that certain work has to go through the shipping door at a certain time. Then he will be forceful, but always friendly. His people will respect his urgency without resenting it.

PRAISE AND CRITICISM:

Probably foremost among the techniques of handling men is the building of morale through praise and encouragement. Commendation by a superior is of great consequence. It breeds loyalty and it inspires the worker to follow through.

So take time to recognize the interest your men show in their jobs. Be positive. Qualify praise as the facts warrant, but never let it be faint. Look first of all for the part of the job that is well done, and complement the worker; then show up the badly done part by contrast and explain how it can be brought up to the standard the worker has set in the good part.

Give credit where it is due. To take credit for a job that one of your men did destroys his initiative and lowers you in the eyes of his associates. The credit due to you comes from your building of an able staff.

Patience is a quality which every foreman should cultivate. When a worker approaches your desk with a complaint, push aside your papers so that it is obvious you are giving him your full attention.

If a complaint is obviously (to you) unjustified or a paltry gripe, give yourself time to cool off and become master of your emotions before you start talking. Is it worth getting angry about? This is one of the tests of your ability to be a manager of men. You must be capable of controlling yourself if you are to control a group of other people.

OTHER SUPERVISORS:

The foreman comes up against many departmental problems which have interdepartmental ramifications. These may be handled in two ways: by agreement between department heads or by a ruling handed down by superior authority.

It is gratifying to foremen and good for the business when matters affecting several departments are settled after a generous interchange of information and a meeting of minds among all who are concerned.

Top management has a responsibility in overcoming supervisory isolation. Wise employers recognize the need of foremen for both individual recognition and group participation. They give their foremen full trust and responsibility, and consult them about

REMEMBER

On This Day, As We Pause in Silent Memory . . .

OUR READERS have their say

I CAN REMEMBER !!

As my husband and myself were enjoying a relaxing Saturday evening, we suddenly heard a loud crack. Thinking one of our children had fallen out of bed I rushed to their room, but all was quiet. My husband searched the basement and I the upstairs but couldn't come up with the cause of the noise.

Later in the evening I had occasion to open the living room drapes and to my disgust and annoyance I saw this squashed egg all over the outside of the window - shell and all.

It was fairly late in the evening about 9:30 p.m. when this happened so therefore I presume it must have been youths and not children.

Being so near Remembrance Sunday it brought to mind the war years, when it was a great treat in many homes, (especially overseas) to have a fresh egg - never mind fresh - any kind of egg.

I hope and pray that whoever tossed that egg will never have to endure a war or suffer the pangs of hunger.

If ever this has to be his lot, he will surely look back and remember the time he wasted precious eggs needlessly.

MONEY WISELY SPENT?

At a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees of the St. Albert Protestant Separate School District the Board directed the Superintendent to interview applicants for the position of Activities-Co-ordinator. The successful candidate is to be offered employment at a salary of between $7,000. - $8,000.00 annually, of which approximately $3,000. is covered by a grant. Is such a person really needed at this stage? We can only agree with Trustee Robert Russell when he pointed out that a Recreation Director had just been hired by the Town, and, anything the Board might do, "would be supplementary".

We wonder if the money would not have been more usefully spent on at least partially covering the salary for a fully qualified student counsellor. The Edmonton Journal recently quoted Mr. S.G.Souch, Vocational Counsellor at the N.A.I.T., as having said: "Teachers should not be burdened with student problems". Speaking during a seminar at the first Edmonton District Convention of the Alberta Teachers Association, Mr. Souch said if teachers, particularly in rural areas, must be involved in counselling then they should act only as "informational, referral" guidance agents. The Journal goes on to quote Mr. Souch as saying counselling is a "very tricky" field and one wrong piece of advice could mean a lifetime of harm .This is not to say that teachers doing counselling are not doing good work he said. However a qualified counsellor should have "a minimum" of four years of graduate study in counselling, Mr. Souch said.

MAYOR'S COLUMN

No civic elections until 1968, and then every three years thereafter? Its entirely possible if the proposed changes and amalgamation of the City, Town and Village, and Municipal Districts Acts are introduced and receive approval in the Provincial Legislature next spring.

This is only one of many changes proposed in the new legislation. Civic elections would be held every three years only at which time the electors would vote for the total Council and Mayor at the same time. This legislation would permit you the elector to replace a whole council at one time if such was your desire. Should this new Act be approved in the spring of 1967 by the Legislative Assembly the 1967 elections would in all likelihood be cancelled with all expiring terms (Councillors Bakker and Wheatley) extended one year.

One other very important recommendation by the Committee charged with streamlining the Act would be the removal of property qualifications for elected office. Non-property owners will be qualified for elected office by having two years uninterupted residence - and making a cash deposit of $50.00.

The proposed changes and amalgamation of the Acts was the subject of the Hon. A. J. Hooke's (Minister of Municipal Affairs) address to the final convention session of the Union of Alberta Municipalities held last Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at Red Deer, St. Albert was well represented by Councillors Bakker, Parkes and Gibbon, Secretary- Treasurer Loyd Wheating and your Mayor. While the St. Albert proposed resolutions fared quite well the highlight for us was the election of Loyd Wheating to the executive of the Union (New Name: Alberta Urban Municipalities Association). We can now look forward to a much closer relationship with this body and be certain that we are being kept right up to date regarding the activities of this most important Association. Mr. Wheating will undoubtedly represent us well. Over 400 delegates were registered for the Convention, which is a good indication of its importance.

In a future column I will advise you of further proposed changes in the Acts under which your Town Council operate. I freely admit that I am by no means in agreement with all of them.

Christmas Vacation dates were set for schools to close December 23rd and re-open January 3rd.

Centennial Report

1867 1967 by JOHN W. FISHER CENTENNIAL COMMISSIONER

You've heard of the population explosion. Have you heard about the information explosion?

In this fast age, I am told, mankind's total knowledge is increased daily by thousands of items of new information produced by scientists, engineers and other professionals. The problem is how to get the information out to people who can use it. It's no good filed away in office cabinets.

In a way we are faced with problems of an information explosion at the Centennial Commission. The Confederation Exhibition Train and Caravans touring Canada from coast to coast next year, for example, will be stopping at more than 800 communities. That means more than 800 place names and more than 800 sets of dates and we want all the people in the 800 communities to know about them.

The Train and Caravans represent merely one challenge in the business of Centennial information distribution. Itineraries for the 3,500-mile Centennial Canoe Pageant, the Armed Forces' Military Tattoo, dates for the naval assemblies in coastal ports, air shows, Festival Canada performances across the land — travelling exhibits of paintings and sculpture and world sport championships — people want to know what, where and when about all these and the many more national events of Centennial year. In addition there are still more planned by the provinces and territories, plus local activities sponsored by communities and private organizations.

Advertisements in the press and over television and radio, of course, will herald events in the cities and towns in the weeks before the occasions. But to let all the people in all of Canada known months in advance about every date and every location for each event, we believe, would create an information explosion on the order of about six megatons. (Our theorists at the Centennial Commission also advise that it couldn't be done!)

It's a great challenge to get information out across the land to all the people, especially when some of the projects are still in the planning stage.

I think one member of my listening audience realized that when she asked a question in an auditorium recently.

"I'm from White Rock, British Columbia, and I'm having friends from the States visiting in the middle of May. Can you tell me what is happening in our area then?"

Well, fortunately I had a set of our computerized data books with me and was able to answer, after a little searching. One of the Confederation Caravans would be stopping in White Rock for two days in May, the 13th and 14th.

Not that we can come up with all the answers all of the time but I realize that a lot of people in many places have similar questions in their minds.

May I suggest, if you can't find the right answers, that you try Information Services, Centennial Commission, P.O. Box 1967, Ottawa. We'll try to beat this information explosion yet!

A Candle For The Cake

BY Patricia Hamilton.

A party is a happy time. But we can't all be the "life" of it. Many of us like to sit back and enjoy the festivities without having to perform. You are doing your part by being present, and being a Canadian is enough to share our special 1967. Maybe we haven't the time or talent to offer but we are here.

We could do little personal touches that would be like adding candles to the Centennial Cake. Write to a friend you have been meaning to get in touch with for ages. Take a course and so improve your little piece of Canada. Jot down a recipe, give it a crazy name and send it to me. How about, "Stew of '67" or "100 Year Old Mix Up"? You don't have to sign it. I collect good Centennial ideas, too, so include a few for other people to do. My address is, 46 Belmont Drive.

Citizens of St. Albert are busy with many activities. A noteworthy one is the $500 metal sculpture of Father Lacombe to be erected for the Centennial Library. Our salute this week goes to the artist of this work, Mr. Guy Voyer. The group salutation is to the women of the town who collected 4,200 books, worth about $8,400, to be presented to the library.

We wish to mention St. Albert's plans and achievements each week. Please keep the Centennial Committee informed of all activities within their area so they can give their support and interest.

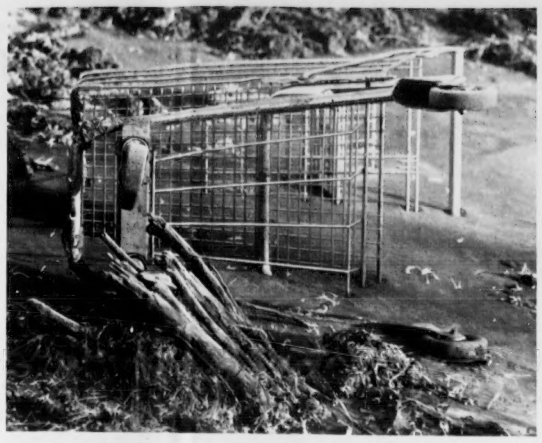
The New England lobster inserts a grain of sand near the base of each feeler to help keep a bearing in its nearly weightless state in water, the National Geographic says. Gravity exerts a faint but constant downward pull on the sand grains, giving pull on the sand grains, giving the lobster what amounts to a built-in plumb line.



CRUISING DOWN THE RIVER - Perhaps the shopping cart heard the song? At any rate it could be seen in the river in front of St. Anne Street in St. Albert this week, somewhat out of position for cruising. The trouble with grocery carts is that they are someone else's property - so who cares?

TERRY BURNAT, Jenner

Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year.

Remember those good old carefree teenage days? But being a teenager means anything but a carefree life for 16-year old Terry Burnat. Just before Christmas her mother was killed, and her father injured in a car accident. Since that time she has taken over the management and operation of her farm home, including the supervision and training of her two brothers, 13-year old Teddy and 11-year old Timothy. She attends school in Medicine Hat, but each weekend comes home to do the washing, ironing, cleaning and cooking. Despite this heavy load of responsibility, Terry has done well in school and was an Efficiency Winner in the Jenner 4-H Beef Calf Club.

We congratulate Terry and wish to thank Alberta's Weekly Newspaper Editors for their active co-operation in the Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year program, sponsored by Alberta's investor-owned electric utility companies.

anything affecting their departments. They bring foremen together periodically to discuss company policy and plans.

COMMUNICATION:
This raises the matter of communication. The autocratic foreman of past years tried to control communication. He would always hold something back so as to give him a feeling being top-dog, a confidant of management. Nothing could be more futile or silly. His workers will hear the news somewhere, somehow, and his withholding it stamps him as a deceitful humbug.

At whatever effort of organization, the foreman must make his communication with his workers produce results. Top management may write about policies and targets until their stenographers are exhausted, but their effort is worthless unless the front line man explains to his workers the day by day application of the policies to the work in hand.

ABOUT PERSONALITY:
You need only look at any group of foremen to realize that they comprise a wide variety of social, economic and cultural patters. There is no single set of inherent qualifications automatically fitting a person into the supervisory rank.

Nevertheless, there are some points of distinction. Sound administration is the sum total of mature imagination, mature perception, mature judgement, and mature humanism. Don't think for a minute that length of service and title give you the right to be a foreman. Handling men today requires all the intuition and mental agility and thoughtfulness you can muster. These virtues arise out of maturity -- which is not a measure of age or service but of mental development.

If you are to be a foreman of the first class, you need an inner zest for the job. You need to provide in yourself the reserve from which you radiate confidence and positive optimism. You need to discipline yourself, too, so that you set the style for your workers in regularity of habits, carefulness about work, and aliveness.

We may well be sorry for the foreman who boasts: "I'm a square shooter; I treat all my men alike." That man has not learned the rudiments of human relations. You can never in your job treat all men alike. You must study people individually if you expect to co-ordinate their activity in terms of a sound, progressive development of your department.

DO NOT STAGNATE:
Many a potentially great foreman never realizes his hopes simply because he defeats himself in little ways.

If you are to lead people properly you must be ever mindful of the fact that you live in a glass house. You should be your own inspector, examining constantly your relations with those around you. Others will look over your work, but you should be sharper than they to see opportunities for improvement.

It is essential to keep on learning. In fact, it is one of the attractions of a supervisory position that the opportunity is so wide open to improve personally and through one's workers. The people who succeed in leadership jobs are those who have a thirst for knowledge and go out and secure their knowledge in one way or another and put it to work.

The dynamic foreman seeks new paths and new ideas because he must keep up with the future if he is not to find himself obsolete. He needs to absorb new points of view with a pliant mind.

Take inventory every once in a while to measure your progress in human relations. Personal inventory honestly carried out is likely to surprise you by its revelation of the resources you possess for the course you wish to follow.

Leadership means to initiate, to instruct, to guide to take responsibility, to be out in front. There should not be a disinterested nerve in your body.

The joy of leadership and the thrill of being in charge of a group of people does not consist in doing a terrific job yourself, but in spending your last ounce of energy and encouragement to see the group crack through to success.

Thompson Highway Open In 1967 To Jasper Road

RED DEER—Tenders for the construction of the last provincial section of the David Thompson Highway are to be invited within two months and plans call for having the entire route from Red Deer to the Banff-Jasper Highway completed for public use by next fall.

In making these announcements here, Highways Minister Gordon E. Taylor also explained that engineering work has been started for relocating and rebuilding the old part of the highway between Rocky Mouitain House and Nordegg.

The section for which construction tenders are to be invited within two months is an 11-mile gap in the highway from Windy Point southwards into the Kootenay Plains.

This section has been relocated to a higher elevation as the original route will be flooded by the reservoir of a large storage and power dam proposed for the area.

Mr. Taylor stated the contract for this section will require its completion by the fall of 1967.

Winter Work

"There will be a lot of heavy construction work on this section," he explained. "There is much rock work on the project, and some of this can be done during the coming winter".

Mr. Taylor added there has been no change in the federal government committment concerning the four miles of the David Thompson Highway through Banff National Park to connect with the Banff Jasper Highway at Saskatchewan River Crossing.

The federal government is committed to have this four-mile section of highway completed by the time the provincial route in finished, and Mr Taylor stated he is confident this will be done.

Completion of the two sections of 11 and four miles will have the David Thompson Highway at the gravelled or better standard from Red Deer to the Banff-Jasper Highway, and it is expected to be a great stimulant for tourism and trucking in west-Central Alberta.

Open Next Fall

"All of this highway will be open for use by the general public by next fall if construction work goes well next summer," Mr. Taylor said.

The overall length of the highway from the city. Red Deer, to the Banff-Jasper Highway is approximately 164 miles with the precise distance of the route from Highway 2A north of Red Deer to the boundaries of Banff National Park being 157.91 miles.

Got a question about Expo 67? Dial 397-8397 and chances are (eight-to-one) that your query will be answered by Rosane Bourgault, a former air hostess now working as a telephone hostess at the Exhibition.

Rosane is among the first of some 80 girls who will man Expovox, a telephone information service for Expo. Already they are handling an average of one call a minute, and experience from past exhibitions shows the number will increase twentyfold by the time Expo gates open.

Southern Alberta I. of T. seeks oldest graduate

Canada's oldest technical institute, the Southern Institute of Technology, is scouting the country for a graduate of the class of 1916 to help celebrate its 50th anniversary on October 13th.

Donald Fleming, principal of the institute and a member of its staff since 1937, is confident that, somewhere in Canada a graduate of the first courses begun in 1916 at the Colonel Walker school will be found.

The first graduate of Canada's oldest technical institute will receive a prize and an all-expense paid trip to Calgary for the special jubilee celebrations.

At the outset, the school was called the Provincial Institute of Technology and Art and the principal was Dr. J. C. Miller, a pioneer in the field of technical and trade training in Canada and Alberta's first director of technical education.

A graduate of the technical institute of this era will recall such early courses as telegraphy for station agents or steam tractor maintenance and repairs.

He may even remember a day in 1922 when the offices and classes of about 800 students then enrolled at the institute were moved to a new $1.5 million building considered the most modern school in the West and which still serves the institute today.

Since the founding of the institute in 1916 when five students registered for classes under seven instructors, more than 50,000 students have enrolled for technical courses.

Nearly 7,000 of them are enrolled at the institute today. They are receiving instruction in more than 500 subjects through day, night and correspondence courses.

Today's comprehensive courses in the technologies, business, art and education with such specialized programs as computor technology and aerodynamics bear little resemblance to the dozen trade subjects offered in 1916.

All of the earliest graduates are extended an especially warm invitation to return to the campus for jubilee day celebrations and are asked to write or phone Mr. Fleming at the institute.

The morning of Jubilee Day, the Institute will be holding an Open House for former staff and students who will be able to see the many changes that have occurred over the years, including the current construction of the Institute's 12 million dollar Tower Building.

Highlight of the afternoon ceremonies will be an official address by Alberta's Lieutenant Governor Dr. Grant MacEwan in the Southern Alberta Jubilee Auditorium.

A Jubilee Banquet and Dance at the Calgary Inn will round out the day's events. Guest speaker for the Banquet will be F. C. Jorgensen, formerly Principal of the Southern Alberta Institute of Technology, and now Principal of Toronto's Ryerson Polytechnical Institute.

Fashion changes spark revival in home sewing

In spite of prosperous consumers and shops bulging with the offerings of a flourishing ready-to-wear industry, the number of women who "sew their own" is steadily increasing

Not since the make-over and make-do days of the 30's and wartime 40's have so many women turned to their sewing machines. Today's home sewer, however, is more interested in sewing for individuality than economy. She sees herself as a do-it-yourself dressmaker, even an amateur couturier.

This fall sewing enthusiasts have pushed registrations at dressmaking schools and classes to an all time high. Across the country a national chain of sewing centres reports long waiting lists. Last year close to 200,000 Canadian women purchased new sewing machines of various makes. In fact, for the past decade sewing machine sales have shown a higher annual growth rate than department store sales.

TODAY'S AVERAGE HOME SEWER WHOSE COCKTAIL DRESS COST HER BETWEEN $10 AND $15 A YARD IS A "FASHION ECONOMIST" RATHER THAN A PENNY WATCHING. SHE KNOWS SHE HAS A GOWN THAT WOULD RETAIL AT TWICE THE PRICE AS WELL AS ONE WITHOUT A DUPLICATE ANYWHERE.

Another important factor in the revival of home sewing was the introduction of a highly automated machine that virtually eliminated all the tediousness inherent in that can tackle anything from darning socks to basting suits formerly associated with dressmaking. This came in 1954 when the Singer Company brought out the first consumer zigzag machine and coats and blind-stitching the hems.

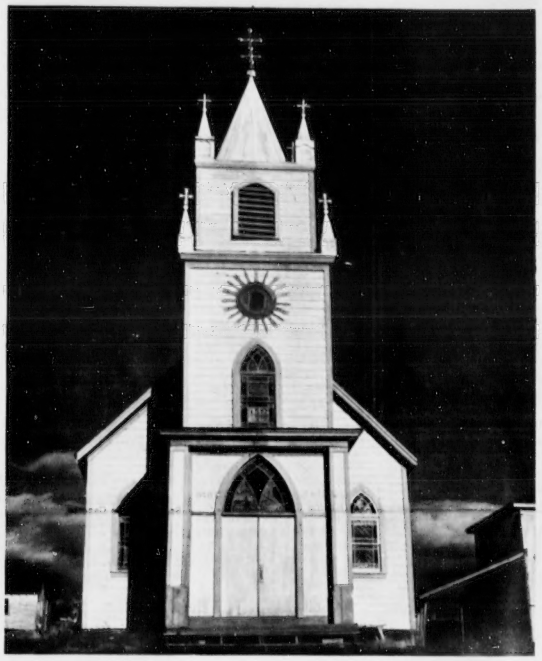
Not all home sewers fit into the married 24-40 age group although, they together with young business girls, are the most numerous.

"It's the 11-15 year olds who do the best work," says Mrs. Larry Whalen of Montreal, educational supervisor for the company's eastern area. "Today it's often the daughter who teaches the mother or prompts her to take lessons".

MRS. WHALEN REGARDS FITTING MOST VITAL IN DO-IT-YOURSELF DRESSMAKING AND TEACHES HER STUDENTS HOW TO FIT THE PATTERN ON THEMSELVES BEFORE PUTTING SCISSORS TO FABRIC.

Fall has supplanted spring as the sewing-bee season. Thus, coats, suits and party clothes have replaced the rather simple garments women used to make. Women find they enjoy the initiative home sewing offers of co-ordinating style, colour, fabric and findings.

"What they are really enjoying", Mrs. Whalen observes, "is the feeling of living more creatively".



The Indian Church at Hagwilget Village, near Hazelton on the upper Skeena river in B. C. has a beauty of its own though small in size and simply constructed. Stained glass windows and the cross-topped bell tower are well kept and adorn the structure gracefully. The Catholic Church stands on a hill facing west, and is seen here illuminated by the setting sun.

Poles and Wires - And Wires and Poles - such is the scene for motorists coming into St. Albert from the South. They may not be too scenic but they're a sign of the times and local residents are happy to see further light standards presently going up on the highway within the Town for the sake of safety.

ALBERTA ECONOMY ADVANCING ON ALL FRONTS

By JOHN WARREN

There were a couple of rather interesting items last week which rated attention, if only because of their apparent contradiction.

The first was a report of the provincial statistician which showed the economy of Alberta advanced on practically all fronts — at least until fall this year.

For instance, income from grain (including payments by the wheat board) totalled almost $200,500,000 to the end of July, compared to just under $190,000,000 in the same period last year. Livestock income in the same period rose nearly $30,000,000 to about $175,000,000.

The story was much the same in other areas. Tourism (indicated by the number of visitors to national parks) was up more than 13 per cent to a total of 2,6000,000 people. Total wages and salaries went up about 13 per cent.

So much for the economy, and you would think government revenues along with it, was on the upswing.

Thus it came as a bit of a surprise last week when the province announced it was going to have to borrow $35,000,000. Such a step hasn't been taken since 1962 and then it was for less than half that sum. The problem lies in oil revenues in the early part of the year which weren't up to the level expected.

However, the picture isn't really very dark. Provincial Treasurer A. O. Aalborg says the money will probably be recouped at a major oil lease sale later this month, or "most certainly by the end of the fiscal year.

There are a couple of other indications that business is booming in assorted parts of Alberta

The government last week called for bids to build a pulp mill in the Grande Prairie area. Interested developers will have until July First of next year to conduct exploratory surveys in the area and submit their proposals for the operation.

Dilemma

I must love my little darlings, or they'll never feel secure;
But if I love them too much, they'll end
neurotics, sure.
I repress my own emotions so they'll not develop fears,
But I can't be stiff or frigid, or I'll scare the little dears.
I must avoid frustrations—let them grow
In Nature's way;
Yet, discipline them firmly, or have delinquents some fine day.
If the experts don't agree soon, I'm fast realizing
It's not the kids, but Mama, they'll be psychoanalyzing.

HUNTING

Why Are Bullets Shaped Like That?

To design a hunting bullet is a complex problem.

It involves consideration of weight, length, shape, size and materials. A bullet must withstand the pressures and friction of being squeezed through the rifle barrel, fly true to its target and then mushroom or expand in size, to deliver its energy and kill the game as quickly and humanely as possible.

Early bullets were thimble-like in shape—short and fat—and made entirely of lead. But if forced through the barrel too quickly the outside of the soft lead was stripped off by the rifling and the bullet was projected through the air as an unevenly shaped object.

Designers found that by enclosing the lead in a metal jacket this stripping effect was eliminated. The jacket is gripped in the rifling which gives the required spin to the bullet and the lead core gives it weight.

Then it was found that slimmer and lighter weight bullets could be given greater velocity, had a longer range and increased accuracy.

However, with all their advantages, the slim jacketed bullets in which the lead core was completely covered did not perform well on game. They often passed through the game, wounding it severely but not stopping it on the spot.

Further research proved that by leaving the lead exposed at the tip of the jacketed bullet it would expand or mushroom on impact. These bullets became known as 'soft pointed'.

They are available in a variety of shapes weights and calibres. High speed bullets should be sharp pointed while slower, heavier bullets should have round tips. Sharp pointed bullets tend to deflect easier from their course than do round nosed bullets. Generally, the former are used for long range shooting such as on the prairies, while the latter, travelling at slower speeds have good bush bucking qualities.

Soft pointed bullets are considered the best all around hunting bullets, but they have some disadvantages. The soft lead tip is subject to damage, especially in the breech during loading. A recent development in bullet design eliminated this problem.

Engineers developed the 'Sabretip' bullet which retains the traditional lead core and metal jacket, but has a nylong or plastic tip.

One of the two Atlantic salmon rearing stations planned by Domtar Ltd., of Montreal for the St. Lawrence River. The company's $350,000 Centennial gift to the country will be capable of turning out 140,000 two-year-old smolts annually.

Domtar's New Project May Replace Salmon

Is salmon fishing extinct in the St. Lawrence River?

It may be now, but if a unique Centennial project succeeds, St. Lawrence fishermen, both commercial and amateur, may be taking salmon from the salt-congested river.

The plight of the Atlantic salmon is an untold conservation drama. Civilization creates a complex of factors which disturbs the natural habitat of salmon.

What Domtar Ltd., of Montreal plans to do is construct two smolt (Atlantic salmon) Stations at Baie Trinité and Rivière Madeleine on the Gulf of St. Lawrence capable of turning out 140,000 smolts a year.

Construction of both projects is expected to be completed late this year with the first batch of smolts ready for hatching early in 1967. The project will cost $350,000.

About 350,000 young fry arrived at the Riviere Madeleine site in early August and are being kept in specially-designed cages in the river until facilities are completed.

Domtar says the rearing stations will be special tourist attractions in Baie Trinité and Rivière Madeleine. Commercial fishermen will benefit through expanded catches through sustained stocking.

OUR ALBERTA HERITAGE

Walking Buffalo

Our Alberta heritage is rich in folklore and legend. The man who told the Indian legends best was George McLean, better known as Walking Buffalo.

Medicine man, councillor and chief of the Stoney Indians of Morley, pioneer Calgary Stampede competitor and long-time parade personality — Walking Buffalo is a living legend in Alberta. During his recent convalescence at the Banff Mineral Springs Hospital following a stroke suffered at the Banff Indian Days, Walking Buffalo told of Alberta's early days.

Speaking in a soft, slow, deliberate manner, the 96-year-old Stoney Indian Chief stated, "If you want to know how this part of the world began, you've come to the right man." He went on to say, "I remember when Calgary Power build first electric power dam at Horseshoe Falls. Chiefs say make peace with white man, so we give them permission to build on reserve. They build three dams."

His own legend tells of a small orphaned baby who was adopted and nursed by a buffalo cow, then returned to his camp unharmed. He and an orphaned cousin were raised by their grandmother in the 1870's.

The missionary John McLean gave him his other name — and with it a good education. He also went to school in Winnipeg for two years.

Walking Buffalo returned as interpreter and councillor for Chief Bearspaw, eventually becoming Chief of the Stoney Indian Tribe himself. He served as a councillor for 15 years, was chief for 10 years and was an original founder of the Indian Society.

An advocate of Indian-White understanding, Walking Buffalo once said, "Indian savages, White savages, both made mistakes, both have much to offer." It is the statement of a man who has helped to enrich and preserve the proud heritage of his people and OUR ALBERTA.
